Britain Gets U. S. Destroyers And We Are Glad of It

President Roosevelt by executive order has traded 50 old American destroyers to Great Britain for naval and air bases on British land in the Western Hemisphere. America approves this deal. It could have been accomplished earlier if Mr. Roosevelt had talked less — if he had convinced the nation he was interested solely in national defense, dissolving the suspicion that he is a crusader determined to put young, rich America into the business of "rescuing" old, pauperized Europe.

We were talked into a "rescue" act in 1917. All it got us was a permanent federal debt, a panic, and another European war in which the Allies are much weaker than before.

But there is a definite defense program America can and must adopt — and this program does not ignore what is going on in Europe.

It is obvious that our Navy is tied fast to the European situation. Our naval construction has always been based on the theory that England would patrol the Atlantic while the United States patrolled the Pacific. Collapse of England on the high seas would endanger us instantly.

We furnish destroyers to England, therefore, in the interest of American defense — and we ask Germany what she is going to do about it.

We back England's naval play — but that is all.

It is a piece of political impudence for America to concern herself about what goes on in continental Europe.

For all you and I know, we may be entering an era like that of Napoleon, when one man and one nation overran all Europe, and held it for 30 years of almost constant warfare.

Our policy should be to confine this tragedy to the Old World. Otherwise there is no point in being an American.

And the best insurance we have is to keep command of the high sea. If that brings us into war, there's no help for it — but it will still be a war of defense.

Plans for the annual Forrest Festival, to be held at Bradley Thursday September 5, for the protection of unit 9 were completed Wednesday according to Russell Stadelman, District Forester.

Oren Harris, of El Dorado, Democratic congress nominee, will be the principal speaker.

He will be introduced by Pat Robinson, Lafayette representative. Fred Long, state forester will also speak.

The program will begin at 2:30 Thursday afternoon with a welcome address by Mayor M. N. Hamner of Bradley. Contests such as seed guessing, nail driving, horseshoe pitching, melon eating, 3-legged races, cracker eating, shoe kicking, sack races, pea carrying, hog calling, and chopping and sawing wood will be held during the afternoon session. Prizes will be given to the winner of each contest. A prizefight will climax the afternoon program.

The night program will begin at 6:30 and will be opened by the Stamps High School Band who will give a short concert.

The Mid-Night Serenaders of Spring Hill, La., will also entertain on the night program.

Following the awarding of prizes a free motion picture show will be shown.

Bradley is planning to take care of a crowd of 1,000.

County Library Branches Out

Approximately 500 Books Are Now Available

Today there is a good library in our city with branches extending over the entire county due to the fact that on February 15, 1940 the Hempstead County Library was organized and was immediately consolidated with the Hope City Library.

Plans were made, and have been to a great degree, carried out to establish branch libraries and stations at different points in the county so that each community would get the benefit of the books from both libraries.

The Hempstead County Library Board, composed of Charles F. Reynerson, Mrs. J. A. Henry, Mrs. Joe Jackson, Mrs. John Wallace, J. I. Lieblich, and A. B. Weatherington employed Miss Elsie Weisenberger as Librarian, effective February 15, 1940. She was one of the fifteen applicants out of which only two met the requirements of the State Library Commission.

Prior to the organization and consolidation of the County Library the City Library had been supported by an appropriation of $300 a year for the library and the County through State Aid made available 2000 more volumes by July 1, 1940 and after July 1st the State offered $2000 with which to purchase more books.

Branches have been organized at Fulton, Washington and Spring Hill. Plans are under way for the opening of a branch at Palmox Bluffs within the next few weeks. Approximately 800 books have been placed in the branches and they may at any time exchange these books at the Library Headquarters in Hope for new or different books. In this way the citizens of the County have access to all the books in the Hempstead County Library.

There is no membership fee to the County Library.

Nazi View of Ship Deal Is Non-Committal

Berlin Says, However, It Is a Good Deal for United States

BERLIN — (AP) — A foreign office spokesman said Wednesday that Germany regards the sale of 50 United States destroyers to Britain in exchange for military bases in the Western Hemisphere as a definite indication that the British Empire is breaking up.

"Germany notes with interest," the spokesman said, "that Britain is virtually throwing away the most valuable areas. Evaluation of 50 old destroyers for eight military bases makes possible certain deductions, and this action is the beginning of a liquidation of the British Empire."

Unofficially and without reflecting the German government's view, some Nazis said they believe the warships were "too late to help Britain" and that, at this stage, 50 destroyers were not sufficient to swing the balance of power to the British.

President Roosevelt's announcement caused no surprise, however.

Other German sources, still not reflecting the official view, observed that the transfer was a good deal for the United States, holding that 99-year leases meant, for all practical purposes, permanent possession of British properties in the Western Hemisphere.

These quarters also held that the United States was taking a realistic view of world happenings and would be neglecting its own interests if it didn't "stake claims" on British lands within its legitimate sphere of influence.

Italian View

ROME — (AP) — Italian Fascism's foremost editorial spokesman, Virginia Gayda, declared Wednesday that the exchange of American destroyers for British naval bases in the Western Hemisphere "puts the United States" in a position of danger.

Washington — The whole destroyer transaction, which Attorney General Jackson ruled did not require congressional action, was described by President Roosevelt, in a brief message notifying Congress of what was being done, as "an epochal and far-reaching act of preparation for continental defense in the face of grave danger."

"This is the most important action in the reinforcement of our national defense that has been taken since the Louisiana Purchase," Mr. Roosevelt added.

The congressional bloc which has supported the president's policy of helping England went on record enthusiastically as approving the exchange. But isolationists denounced the transaction as an "act of war" which, some said, would justify Adolf Hitler in declaring war on the United States.

This group contended Congress should have received an opportunity to pass upon the transaction. They called it the act of a "dictator," and asserted transfer of the destroyers was forbidden by law.

Jackson Attacked

Mr. Roosevelt attached to his congressional message, however, the opinion by Attorney General Jackson holding that no legal obstacle existed.

American Legion to Meet Thursday

The American Legion will meet Thursday night at 8 o'clock at Hope city hall at which time the new officers will be in charge.

Terrell Cornelius, post commander, will submit plans for the coming year and all general business will be discussed at this meeting.

All ex-service men are urged to be present.

National Day of Prayer

The President of the United States on August 8 issued a special proclamation setting aside Sunday, September 8, as a national day of prayer.

In his proclamation Mr. Roosevelt urges that the people of all creeds and denominations join in prayer in the churches, or in the homes, or wherever they may be, that God's blessing may rest upon our own country; that there may be "the establishment of a just and permanent peace among all the nations of the world," and that God may "grant to this land and to the troubled world a righteous, enduring peace."

The American heritage of individual freedom and of government deriving its power from the consent of the governed has from the time of the fathers of our republic been proudly transmitted to each succeeding generation, and to us of this generation has fallen the task of preserving it and transmitting it to the future. We are now engaged in a mighty effort to fortify that heritage.

"Mindful of our duties in the family of nations we have endeavored to prevent the outbreak and the spread of war, and we have raised our voices against international injustice. As Americans and as lovers of freedom we are humbly sympathetic with those who are facing tribulation in lands across the seas. When victory succeeds day brings sad news of suffering and disaster abroad, we are especially conscious of the divine power and of our dependence upon God's merciful guidance. With this consciousness in our hearts it is seemly that we should, at a time like this, pray to Almighty God for His blessing on our country and for the establishment of a just and permanent peace among all the nations of the world."

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, do hereby set aside Sunday, September 8, 1940, as a day of prayer; and I urge the people of the United States, of all creeds and denominations, to pray on the day, in their churches or at their homes, on the high seas or wherever they may be, beseeching the Ruler of the universe to bless our republic, to make us reverently grateful for our heritage and firm in its defense, and to grant to this land and to the troubled world a righteous, enduring peace."

Germany Still Ranks Second Best in Economic War; Lacks Material for Prolonged Conflict

Has Sufficient Until Spring, Except for High-Test Gas

Second of two articles analyzing economic strengths of Britain and Germany after one year of war.

By JOHN T. FLYNN
NEA Service Financial Writer

At the end of a year of war, Germany's economic resources, despite many favorable factors and her great victories, remain inadequate for carrying on a war as long as England can endure.

On the very evening of the war she enormously mitigated the serious nature of her economic condition by her pact with Russia.

That, she said, broke the British blockade.

How much it brought to her in supplies is still unknown. She did get some ore, grain and oil — all badly needed.

And the pact did completely alter the whole situation in the Balkans in favor of Germany.

But it is quite possible that the amount of supplies going from Russia to Germany has not been decisive.

There is friction now because of Germany's inability to deliver up to schedule to Russia the machinery with which the Nazis were to pay for Russia's oil and grain.

Processors — Not Producers

The conquest of Belgium, Denmark, Norway and northern France has certainly brought Germany large new iron supplies.

But it has not augmented her food supplies in any important way.

These countries were great food stations for Europe — chiefly England. But they were processors rather than producers.

Holland, for instance, produced butter and cheese.

But she had to get the feed for her cattle from without. And Germany can no more get grain for Holland's cows than for her own people.

Norway imported about 60 per cent of her food. The rest was mainly fish. Now even fish is scarce because of the lack of gasoline for Norway's fishing boats.

In Denmark there has been an immense slaughter of cattle and chickens because they compete with human beings for food.

That Germany got in these countries and in Poland is a vast population which cannot feed itself and which faces starvation.

John Maloney, American Red Cross representative in eastern Europe, says 35,000,000 must go on a near-starvation ration this winter.

Britain will not permit food to be sent to these peoples. Germany disclaims all responsibility to feed them.

What will be the effect upon Germany's morale of these great masses grappling under her care with starvation and disease?

Germany herself, according to the British Agricultural Commission, has food enough — reserves and current crops — to last until the fall of 1941.

This, however, is predicted upon good crops this year.

And the crops are not good. All Europe will have a 1,360,000,000-bushel wheat crop compared with 1,700,000,000 last year.

We have no figures available on the other agricultural crops. All important economic data in Germany and Italy ceased to appear after August, 1939.

But reports filtering out of Germany are that lack of manpower has resulted in heavy reductions in the crops as a whole. There is no critical shortage of meat and only a moderate shortage of sugar.

Germany — save for one thing — seems to have enough to be able to pull through into the spring.

England Still Holds Economic Edge

The big question mark on the economic front is gasoline.

No one knows how much damage the R. A. F. has done to Germany's oil storage.

Rumors persist that her most important high-test air-engine gasoline synthetic plant has been destroyed.

Her armies have not been consuming material in the last several weeks, but her planes are now tapping most of her material — gas for her planes. That is a completely closed book so far as reliable information is concerned.

The economic situation may be stated thus: In an endurance race between England and Germany, England still can outlast her enemy.

Germany to defeat Britain must win a military victory — that is, a victory in the air or on the sea or on land, sufficient to destroy Britain's power to land the supplies she possesses.

Knocks Bandit Out With One Blow to Head

Will Modisett, Stamps Oil Man, Captures Life Term

STAMPS, Ark. — (AP) — Percy Loftin, life-termer who was one of the ring-leaders in the Labor day escape of 38 convicts from Cummins state prison farm, was captured by a husky south Arkansas oil man at nearby Lewisville Wednesday after commandeering an automobile occupied by four Lafayette county residents.

Will Modisett, 6-foot 200 pounder, who came here recently from Loneview, Texas, felled the slightly-built Loftin with a single blow of his fist in a Lewisville filling station after the driver of a car commanded by Loftin swerved into the station.

Loftin attempted to stop Modisett at a rifle point earlier when Modisett and Tommy Aiken, a Stamps oil man, drove up to the Garland City bridge 10 miles west of here but Modisett sped up and passed the convicts.

After proceeding a short distance up the road Modisett and Aiken decided to return. Enroute back they saw the desperado stop a couple occupied by three young women and a man, and enter the machine.

Occupants of the car were Miss Pauline Shurtliff, a Buckner school teacher, her brother, Glen Shurtliff, and Misses Jennie Allen and June Myers.

As they drove into town, Miss Shurtliff answered into a filling station with the Modisett car, following closely. Modisett leaped from the car toward Loftin and when the convict raised his fist to knock the oil man aside, the oil man knocked the convict unconscious with a single blow of his fist.

Taken into custody by Sheriff Ose Griffin the convict was placed in the Lafayette county jail to await return to the prison farm.

3 Are Captured

COLUMBIA, La. — (AP) — Three of four desperate Arkansas convicts "surrounded by 1,000 grim possumen" rendered Wednesday after releasing unharmed two high school students held at hostages since Monday night.

Surrender came a few hours after the convicts had freed a third captive girl and sent her to the police with a "true" demand.

Caught between a closing line of state police troops and trusty convicts in civilian clothes from a Louisiana penitentiary the convicts threw down their guns and gave up.

Convicts captured were: Bruce Fowler, Bill Heard and Bill Mehard. Possession from three states rounded up by either death or capture a total of eight Wednesday, making 18 accounted for.

Three were captured in Arkansas, one at Lewisville and two at Gillett, At Vicksburg, Miss., the police announced that one escapee was killed and another was captured at the Mississippi river bridge.

Hunt Continues

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. — (AP) — Hundreds of peace officers and armed citizens of south Arkansas and north Louisiana were continuing a widespread search for approximately two dozen convicts who remained at large after Monday's break of 36 prisoners from the Arkansas penitentiary farm here.

Less than a dozen fugitives had been accounted for after more than 24 hours of pursuit.

Three persons were known to be dead and two injured as a result of the escapes.

The dead: Frank Gartman, auto dealer of Columbia, La., and special deputy sheriff.

Injured: Guard Troy Wade, knifed by the rebellious convicts Monday.

W. E. Barner, one of the fugitives, found to be suffering from a broken arm and gunshot wounds when he was captured near Garland City, Ark., Tuesday.

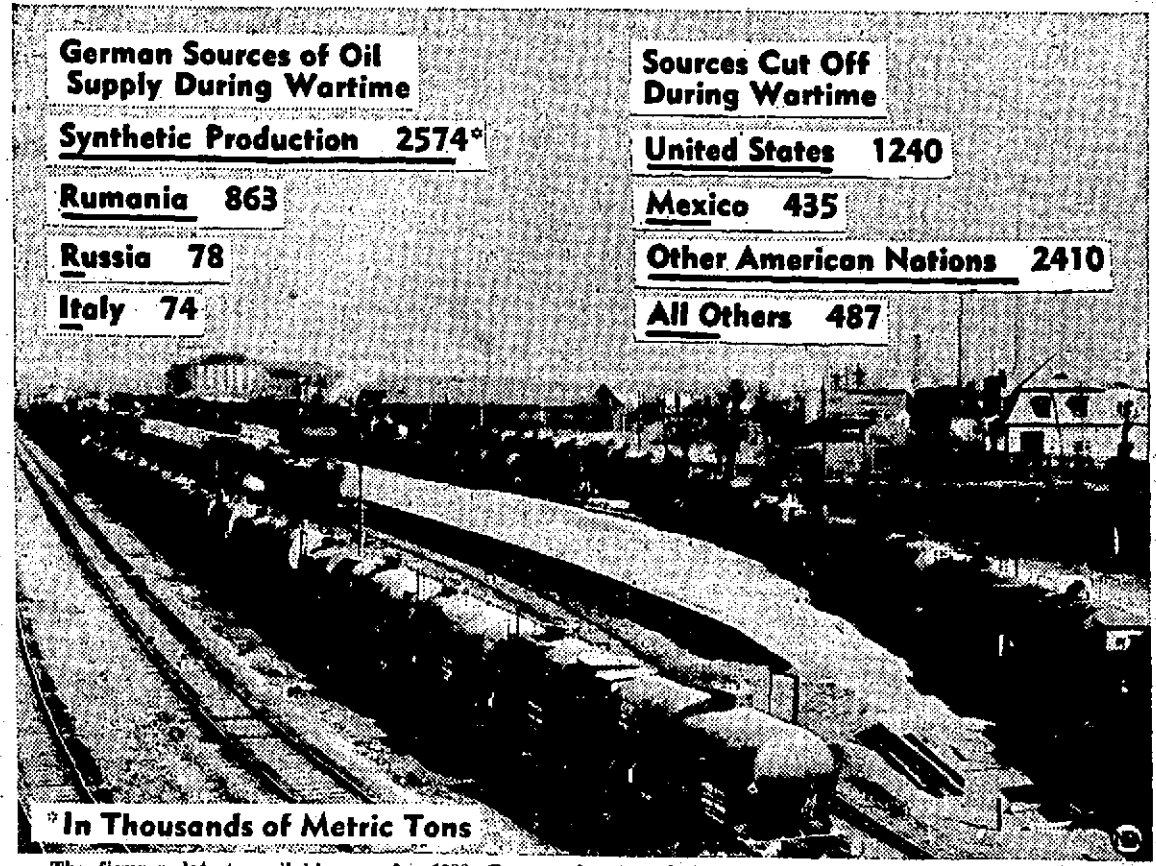

Nine Fugitives Taken

The day's searches, extending from the Mississippi river to the Texas line, and deep into north Louisiana, accounted for these prisoners:

Frank Conley, 34, serving 21 years for robbery and kidnapping in Faulkner county, and named as one of the leaders of the break who shot Guard Martin, slain by the Columbia possemen.

Walter Magby, 26, serving seven years for burglary and grand larceny in Ouachita county, and Leon Johnson, 32, serving 43 years for burglary and robbery in Miller county, captured Tuesday.

Hitler Jeers at British

He's Coming Over, the Fuehrer De- clares in Address

BERLIN — (AP) — Adolf Hitler broke weeks of silence Wednesday to threaten that his air force would "erase" Britain's cities if the royal air force persists in night raids on Germany, and to predict — again — that England will crack-up.

Hitler, in a high humor, jeeringly declared that England is asking why Hitler didn't come. "My reply is," he said, "to just be quiet, he's coming, all right."

The Fuehrer spoke at an inauguration of a winter relief campaign for Germany's needy.

British Repell Attacks

LONDON — (AP) — British fighters and anti-aircraft guns quickly repelled two enemy thrusts Wednesday as it disclosed that RAF bombers had launched a four-hour series of counter-attacks Tuesday night against advanced German striking bases in France.

Attempted attacks on the Kent and Essex airports by two German forces, one of them consisting of 40 bombers and escort fighters, were turned back in the morning without any reported damage or casualties the air ministry said.

Clash Over Germany

BERLIN — (AP) — Crossing paths with Nazi planes headed for raids on England, squadrons of British bombers clashed with German fighters west of Berlin Tuesday night in action which informed sources described as central Germany's first big engagement of the war.

Only a "few" British planes succeeded in reaching Berlin, the high command said, but they were seen crossing and recrossing the city. No bombs were dropped in the capital. Residents however kept in cellars during a two and one-half hour alarm.

Four or five British planes were reported shot down by anti-aircraft fire and German fighters. Another of the raiders was reported brought down by a cable barrage of balloons.

Russia Calls Out Troops

MOSCOW — (AP) — The Soviet defense Commissioner Marshal Semen Timoshenko Wednesday called up two new classes for military service.

Commenting on the order the newspaper Bolshevik noted a "call to colors comes during a very complicated international situation when the world involved is second to the imperialist war," and observed that the "red army and navy would receive perfect reinforcements this year."

Tickets for the recital may be obtained from members of the St. Marks Auxiliary and the Friday Music Club.

Local Negroes Held
on Girl's Complaint

Two Hope negroes, Cecil Stephens, 20, East Sixth street, employee of McRae Milling company, and James Burton, 19, East Seventh street, employee of Criner's pol. had, were held by city police Wednesday for investigation following complaint of an unnamed local white girl.

The girl informed police Tuesday night that the Stephens negro had telephoned her to meet him because he had a note from a white man for her. By arrangement, the police were there when the girl met the negro. The negro delivered a note, police said, but identification of the writer of the note being unsatisfactory, both the Stephens and Burton negroes were held for investigation.

Ambitious Town
Plans World Fair

ILWACO, Wash. — (AP) — This town of 300 insists there is going to be a world's fair in 1942, regardless of wars, and that it's going to be right here.

Acknowledging that Ilwaco cannot rival the New York or San Francisco expositions in size, Mayor Norman A. Howerton nevertheless asserts that the regular pattern of world's fairs will be followed.

Help from both congress and the state legislature is sought.

City Council Meets Tuesday

General Business Discussed at Regular Meet

Mayor W. S. Atkins and seven members of the Hope city council met at city hall Tuesday night at which time reports from the fire and police departments for the month of August were read.

A motion was made and passed to pay $60 dues to the Arkansas Municipal League for the coming year.

The council instructed C. O. Thomas water and light plant manager, to get in touch with the chief engineer of the L. and A. Railway and request him to enlarge the drainage ditch and culvert on the right-a-way in the south part of the city.

An amendment fixing the license fee for out-of-town photographers at $5 per day; and a $900 yearly fee was fixed on cotton buyers not maintaining an office in Hope. This is expected to help keep local cotton from going to other markets and keep buyers from sampling the bales before it goes to the compress.

C. O. Thomas submitted bids on the purchase of four signal lights and an automatic control but no immediate action was taken.

The street commissioner was instructed to purchase 25 yards of gravel to store and use as needed and give special attention to the Fair park road.

C. O. Thomas was instructed to again get in touch with Patmos citizens in an effort to get more customers for a proposed rural electrical line. It was agreed that the line would have to average $12 per mile each month before it could be constructed.

A motion was made and passed to instructing the street department to oil park drive leading to the Fair park and also agreed to hire more policemen to handle traffic during fair week.

Wisconsin has 2400 cheese factories, which produce more than 60 per cent of all the cheese manufactured in the United States.

Revival at Tabernacle

Evangelist Barnes Preaching Wednesday Night

The reason for so many empty pews in the churches of today, is because so many preach about a Christ of yesterday. The world needs and desires a Christ of today. Jesus Christ was in the long ago, but more important he is today, what he was yesterday, and he will be tomorrow what he is today. He is today, said Evangelist Carl W. Barnes in the third night of the revival he is conducting at the Hope Gospel Tabernacle.

For the third time in this series of services, an unusually large crowd listened to the Rev. Barnes' dynamic sermon on, "He is Able." The evangelist was emphatic in his contention that Jesus Christ was just as able and willing to perform miracles today as he was when on earth.

In addition to delivering the sermon, Mr. Barnes is directing a large choir and the congregation in singing. He is nationally known as a song leader, having been honored time and again with an invitation to direct singing in the largest gatherings of his denomination.

Wednesday night the evangelist will speak on, "What About the Judgment?" Special singing by a large staff of workers and musicians is an added feature in the services, which are conducted each night at 7:45.

Travelers Lose to Nashville

League Champs Take Little Rock Series

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Participating in their first game as 1940 Southern Association champions, Larry Gilbert's Nashville Vols came from behind to defeat the Little Rock Travelers, 4 to 2, here Tuesday night. It gave the Vols a clean sweep of the series.

Trailing two runs, Nashville got to Jim Prendergast for four hits and four runs in the seventh inning to decide the issue. The inning was clinched by Boken's home run over the right wall. The pinch-hitter's homer

BARBS

A half million dollars worth of buggy whips are still sold annually in the United States. At first thought this sounds like 10 whips to each horse.

Science says the average man of 70 has spent five years of his life waiting. Four of which probably were spent trying to attract the waitress's attention.

Lemons are selling for 25 cents each in London, and only one to a customer. If nothing else, this helps take the sour taste out of war-weary mouths.

Nashville's third run. Prendergast went the route and yielded eight hits.

Nashville used two pitchers, Percy Corley and Ace Adams, the former being the winner. They yielded nine hits.

Little Rock threatened in the eighth. Irwin grounded out and Dwyer singled. Schalk popped out but Duke, single sent Dwyer to second. Hockett made a great running catch to snare Lupien's drive to center to retire the side.

SERIAL STORY

LOVE ON THE LINE

BY PAUL FRIGGENS

COPYRIGHT, 1940, NEA SERVICE, INC.

YESTERDAY: A second busy day ended and Carrie is left to spend the first night in her prairie home, alone. She awakens early, in suffocating heat. Rushing to the window, she sees flames pierce the horizon. She is alone, with a prairie fire sweeping toward her.

CHAPTER IX
THE picture of Carrie Lane standing there in the moonlight by her soddy, the memory of Carrie Lane close in his arms, left Mark Deuel shaken, blotted out all other thoughts for him on the long, lonesome ride back to town from Rock Creek.

He had told her he loved her, he recalled now, trying to piece together every fragment of the moment, and she had whispered she loved him; Carrie Lane, whom he'd seen first in the land office only a few days ago, loved him!

Over and over, Mark gazed with that thought as he rode through the night to Sioux Springs; over and over, Mark relived every unbelievable moment of it throughout the next day. When he went to sleep, 24 hours after he had said goodby to her, it was with Carrie's whisper lulling, like sweet music, in his ears.

He was dreaming of her when he awoke. But in the dream the moonlight had changed to stifling darkness; the cool breeze had become scorching. The parched prairie was on fire. With Carrie, terror-stricken, he dreamed he was fighting through the night to the scalloped wall Ed Taylor had dug, as flames lighted the new soddy, smoke choking them every step of the way.

Like lightning, Mark bounded out of bed, rushed to the window. There WAS smoke in the air. In the first dim light of dawn, the sky glowed fiery red toward the north—and Rock Creek!

"My God," moaned Mark, "Carrie—Carrie!"

He dressed, ran from the house toward Newt Gale's livery stable for a horse and, turning the corner, found the town suddenly alive. The dusty main street of Sioux Springs was a wild melee of running, shouting men.

Mark joined them, drew up panting in front of the livery stable where a crowd gathered around a foam-necked horse and a tousled, bareheaded youth. Mark recognized the lad instantly, the Sage boy from upper Rock Creek.

Mark pushed through the crowd, gained the boy's side. "How bad is it?" he asked, breathless.

"Pretty bad," said the boy. "It had been burning quite a spell when the Blakes discovered it and rode over to wake us up. Pa sent me right in for help. There's nobody much over on that side to fight fire."

"Has it reached the creek?" Mark shouted another question.

"No, but it's heading straight that way—fast. I'll reach it without nobody stopping it."

Mark knew what that meant, paled suddenly at the thought. The crowd knew it, too. Once over Rock Creek there might be no stopping a prairie fire. The town itself was in danger.

There was a shuffling of feet, a weighted, explosive silence. These men wanted someone to take the lead, Mark felt, and he seized the opportunity.

"All right, young Sage," he said, turning to the men for tacit approval, "we'll turn out the town and go back with you."

IT was an unforgettable scene, that dawn in Sioux Springs; the sky hanging low, dull, sulfo-cating; wagons rumbling, homesteaders yelling; a handful of women, white-faced, standing in a knot by the store; horses galloping off in the dust toward the fiery blotch on the horizon from which a great, black cloud of smoke now rose toward the heavens.

Spurring his horse across the hot, dry prairie toward the smoke, Mark noticed jackrabbits, grouse, even the field mice scurrying away from the direction of the flames. He pictured Carrie alone in her soddy; pictured her terror on awaking in the darkness, seeing the flames, fleeing, perhaps, to Taylor's and losing her way in the darkness. He tried to recall how she had looked that night in the moonlight, her firm little chin tilted up to his and her eyes bright as coals. But somehow in the peril of the moment he could not reclaim that precious moment.

Reaching a little knoll, from which he could look down across the broad Rock Creek valley, Mark realized the fire was even worse than the Sage boy had described it. East of Taylor's it had licked its way savagely through the short, dry grass to a point less than three miles above Carrie's claim. It was now sending up a thick,

Buick Prices Held Down

Increase Is 2.12%
Four Models Drop in Price

FLINT, Mich. — Notwithstanding general rises in material and operating costs, list prices of new Buick cars for 1941 have been held to an average increase of 2.12 per cent, while four models have been reduced and another body classification added at a price $55 lower than its nearest counterpart last year.

At the same time, weight has been added to all Buick models and new features of design and construction incorporated in the cars which substantially increase their value.

This was announced Wednesday by Harlow H. Curtice, president and general manager, who said he believes the 1941 Buick price structure, considering all basic influences, represents a higher dollar value than at any previous time in the company's long history.

He said the fact of Buick's new high volume accomplished with the 1940 models, and the projected sales of more than 300,000 during the new model run, effects savings through volume production which are passed on to the consumer in the price of the cars.

List prices are lower on all series 70 roadmaster cars except the convertible coupe, which has been raised $15 or $11 per cent. The four-door convertible phaeton in the series 50 super line also has been cut $25.

Increase in the series 40 cars, which have new aerodynamic bodies of substantially larger dimensions, and entirely new chassis and new accessories, range from $23 to $38

New Buicks Start Rolling Off Assembly Lines

In the series 50 super cars, featuring the popular "torpedo" type body, the average list price increase is 1.47 per cent. The increases are $25 on two body styles and $45 on a third, with the $25 reduction on the phaeton model. Part of the increase in these prices covers the addition of compound carburetor to the series 50 cars as standard equipment.

Included in the list price of the series 50 cars, along with the series 60 century and series 70 roadmaster models, are such accessories as flexible steering wheel, clock, license plate frames, wheel trim rings, foam-text seat cushions, rear seat center armrest, extra bumper guards, compound carburetor, panel lights and oil bath cleaner. The latter device is standard on all Buick engines.

A feature car of the whole line, both from a style and price standpoint, is the new series 40 sedan, a super-streamlined six passenger two-door coupe-sedan, listing at $950 against last year's price for the series 40 special four-door sedan, off $559. The business coupe model in the same series lists at $895 with an advertised delivered price in Flint, Michigan, of $935.

Mr. Curtice pointed out that through out the Buick lower price range list prices have been kept under $1,000 with the new series 50 super business coupe also listing below that figure.

Price reductions on four models, the series 50 convertible phaeton, and the series 70 roadmaster four door sedan, sport coupe and convertible phaeton range from $5 to $25.

Buick's new aerodynamic bodies on the series 60 century model will show a small increase in price and will carry many new improvements.

Wide sidewall tires are standard on all convertible models with new independent heaters standard equipment on all phaetons. All 1941 Buick cars will be offered in a wide selection of two-tone color combinations with 19 paint selections at no extra cost.

Buick 1941 list prices compared with last year follow:

Jacksons argument dealt with the 1917 law providing that:

"During a war in which the United States is a neutral nation, it shall be unlawful to send out of the jurisdiction of the United States any vessel, built, armed, or equipped as a vessel of war, or converted from a private vessel into a vessel of war, with any intent or under any agreement or contract, written or oral, that such vessel shall be delivered to a belligerent nation."

The "over-age" destroyers, Jackson contended, were clearly not built, armed, or equipped with any such intent or with reasonable cause to believe they would ever enter the service of a belligerent.

As to "mosquito boats" nearing completion, whose proposed transfer to the British was stopped recently when the attorney general said that it would seem to violate the 1917 law, Jackson said he still was of the opinion their transfer was prohibited. If they were turned over to the British, he ruled, they would have been built for the British to the extent of the work done in completing them.

Holds No Obligation

On the question of whether the president could complete the proposed exchange without Senate ratification or additional legislation, Jackson said it was "hardly open to controversy" that the president's powers as commander-in-chief of the armed forces placed upon him a "responsibility to use all constitutional authority" to provide adequate defense bases. Acquisition of the bases, he argued, was "without expressed or implied promises" by the United States to be performed in the future.

"It is not necessary," he contended, "for the Senate to ratify an opportunity that entails no obligation."

The transfer, Jackson added, "falls far short in magnitude of the acquisition by President Jefferson of the Louisiana Territory from a belligerent during a European war, the congress later appropriating the consideration and the senate later ratifying a treaty embodying the agreement."

Willkie Favors Sale

RUSHVILLE, Ind.—(P)—Although declaring "the country will undoubtedly approve" of the administration's trade of destroyers for naval base rights in British possessions, Wendell L. Willkie said Tuesday it was regrettable President Roosevelt "did not deem it necessary" to obtain prior congressional approval or permit public discussion.

Willkie handed reporters this formal statement at a press conference in his back yard:

"The country will undoubtedly approve of the program to add to our naval and air bases and assistance given to Great Britain. It is regrettable, however, that the president did not deem it necessary in connection with this proposal, to secure the approval of congress or permit public discussion

Carol Fired on

General Antonescu to form a new cabinet which is expected to constitute a military dictatorship.

Gunmen attempted to assassinate King Carol Tuesday night in an alleged Iron Guard plot to seize power and place Prince Mihai on the throne. While the would-be assassins broke through the palace guard and fired several shots at a lighted window in Carol's palace, other groups of Iron Guardists attacked the Bucharest radio station and the American-owned telephone company's central office.

Similar coups were attempted at Brasov and Constanta but were quickly crushed.

One Iron Guardist and one palace guard were reported shot in the assassins' attempt to storm the palace. The attackers were overcome and hustled away by soldiers in the car in which they had arrived at the palace.

Several men entered the telephone exchange and wrecked some of the switchboards with hatchets. Most local lines were put out of order. The radio station went off the air after a group of men in uniform burst in and tried to destroy the equipment. All were arrested.

The fact that a coup had been attempted was acknowledged in an official communique, but the effort to kill King Carol was minimized.

Samuel O. Hankin, 25, serving a three-year term from Jefferson county for robbery, taken into custody in a woods near Gould after he had sent a note to prison authorities by a negro, saying he desired to surrender.

Raymond Hodges, 23, doing three years for robbery in Monroe county, captured Tuesday afternoon near Meroney, 15 miles southwest of the farm.

Kenneth Shipley, one of the two 16-year-old convicts who escaped, was recaptured at 10:15 Tuesday night in a thicket near the plantation store of Capt. R. M. Roe at Moscow, 13 miles east of Pine Bluff, in Jefferson county. Jefferson county officers and a small citizen's posse began their search when three suspicious characters were seen at Moscow about dark. The group continued its search for the two others believed to have been with Shipley. Shipley offered no resistance.

Shipley was sent up this year from Miller county to serve one to three years on conviction of burglary and grand larceny.

er for him, with a good desk, a proper reading lamp, a comfortable chair.

Now, with a new school year starting, you hope once again that he'll make use of these fixings and turn into a real scholar.

If you are like many parents, though, you fear the worst. It won't surprise you a bit to find your boy writing a letter to some girl when he's supposed to be studying.

You'll find he takes the same amazing length of time to settle down to actual studying. Suppose you've set 7:30 as the hour for him to start his homework. At the proper hour, he goes to his desk, a docile student. Then he starts a great show of activity. He sharpens pencils, fills his fountain pen, thumbs through his notebook. Perhaps he straightens out his desk drawer.

If You Ask—

It looks like schoolwork, but if you ask, "Did you figure out that algebra problem that was worrying you?" he answers, "Haven't got to that yet. I'm getting this other stuff cleared up first."

It's enough to make you lapse into problem parent lecture No. 11.

"When I was in school, I didn't get away with the loafing you do. Why

I thought it was a privilege to go to school. My parents didn't have to keep at me to make me study.

"I used to hurry to get my chores done just so I could get to work. I milked the cow and brought in wood after supper, and then studied. I think the trouble is you youngsters nowadays don't have enough work to do. What you need is more responsibility."

By this time, of course, your boy isn't listening. He's heard it all before.

Can't Alter Conditions

Parents might as well realize that the "when I was young" lecture does no good. They can't change modern conditions to agree with those which existed when they were in school, nor would they want to.

If a child is unable to study, it isn't because he hasn't any cows to milk. There's some better reason for his trouble. The parent should consult with the boy's teachers—without the boy's knowledge of course—and find out if possible why the boy dislikes school work. Together, parents and teachers may be able to find a solution to the problem.

ROLLING 'EM "NEAT AND SMOOTH"

That's how Bob Jones describes Prince Albert in his "makin's" smokes

In recent laboratory "smoking bowl" tests, Prince Albert burned 86 DEGREES COOLER than the average of the 30 other of the largest-selling brands tested — coolest of all!

70 fine roll-your-own cigarettes in every handy tin of Prince Albert

PRINCE ALBERT THE NATIONAL JOY SMOKE

ROLLIN' ALONG WITH P.A. "Prince Albert's the tobacco with the swell aroma," says Al Clark (left). "A real bargain, too," adds Bob Jones, "each smoke costs so little." Try P.A. in your "makin's" smokes, men. There's no other tobacco like it. (And pipe-smokers everywhere say: "Ditto!")
